Neuware - Master's Thesis from the year 2003 in the subject Film Science, grade: 1,0, University of Edinburgh, 37 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: Wim Wenders, one of the key figures of New German Cinema, a movement similar to the Nouvelle Vague in some ways, is of another generation than Fellini and Godard. In his film Der Stand der Dinge (1982) he literally commutes between the two poles of his filmmaking, Europe and the US. The film begins in Portugal, where a film crew is forced to stop shooting and ends at the place where all the great cinema myths arise, Hollywood. Wenders film is an attempt by a young filmmaker to find a stable creative position in unstable times. (Wenders had just experienced great difficulties in making Hammett (1982) in the US). In Der Stand der Dinge this is exemplified by the direct inclusion of his own thoughts about European and American filmmaking, images and stories, and black-and-white and colour film stock, opposites that are not harmoniously resolved at the end. Among the three films discussed Wenders film within the film is the only one not completed, suggesting an unsure future for the cinema. In examining these three films, I shall focus on the following aspects: 6 In what way does the film reflect on the history of motion pictures (references to it) What attitude does the filmmaker have concerning the artificial-illusionist elements of his profession/product How does the filmmaker deal with the narrative and filmic conventions of his profession What does the film tell us about the film director s artistic and working style. Does life imitates art in these films To which extent can autobiographic elements be...
